PRICE THREE CENTS

NINE DIE IN SCHOOL FIRE

JAMES W. HALFHILL, 62, DIES FROM HEART ATTACK

Attorney and Lifelong Friend of President Harding

PROMINENT IN CITY AFFAIRS

Funeral Services Set for Wednesday at 2 p. m.

James Wood Halfhill, senior member of the law firm of Halfhill, Quail & Kirk, died at 3:30 Sunday afternoon at his home, 127 N. Collett-st., after a month's illness. Following an attack of influenza. He was 62 years old.

Halfhill was one of Ohio's most widely known men. Thru his activities in Republican state and national politics he had become known all over the state and at the national capital.

He was a personal and political friend of President Warren G. Harding for many years and was partly responsible for Harding's nomination in 1920. The president will probably be unable to attend the funeral here, because of the condition of Mrs. Harding's health.

Halfhill was taken ill while in Washington on business late in January. He was confined to his bed in a hotel there, but was able to return to Lima February 2. Influenza had affected his heart, but despite exhaustion he attempted to take care of pressing business at the office.

SHOCKED BY MAIRE DEATH

The death of Edward Maire, a close friend, March 26, was a shock to Halfhill. The day of Maire's death was Halfhill's last day at the office.

He remained in bed attended by physicians. Last Thursday James Halfhill, Jr., senior medical student at the University of Michigan, came home accompanied by a specialist from Ann Arbor. Halfhill grew steadily weaker until Saturday, when he was reported as resting easily. Sunday morning he sank rapidly and death came at 3:30 in the afternoon.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Detailed arrangements have not been completed.

Halfhill's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Wood Halfhill, of Mercer, survives her son. She is 96 years old. At present she is at the home of her daughter in Cleveland.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a brother, Charles W. Halfhill, of Mercer, two sisters, Mrs. Amelia H. Powell, wife of Dr. A. E. Powell, Cleveland, and Mrs. Martha J. Shatzel, wife of J. B. Shatzel, Bowling Green, O., and a half-brother, A. P. Halfhill of Los Angeles, and one son, James Wood Halfhill, Jr., 25, who will be graduated in June from the medical school at the University of Michigan.

Halfhill was born on a farm near Mercer, March 1, 1861, the eldest child of Moses and Eleanor Wood Halfhill. He attended the Union school at Mercer, but his education was interrupted by the death of his father when the boy was 15 years old.

He spent the next several years operating the farm. In 1881 he entered Ohio Northern university at Ada and was valedictorian of his graduating class in 1884, when he took a degree as Bachelor of Science. BEGINS PRACTICE HERE

He then began to read law in the office of Judge William H. West at Bellefontaine. In 1886 he entered the senior class of the law school at the University of Cincinnati and took a degree as Bachelor of Laws the next June. He was president of his graduating class.

Halfhill immediately came to Lima and became associated with Jacob C. Ridenour under the firm name of Ridenour and Halfhill. This partnership continued until Ridenour's death, July 8, 1908. The present firm of Halfhill, Quail & Kirk was established January 1, 1909.

Halfhill was a stockholder and director of the Old National bank, the First National Bank of Ada, the Ohio State Life Insurance company of Columbus, the Turners Roofing company of Lima, the Ridenour-Bayly Drug company of Lima, and other corporations. He was stockholder and secretary-treasurer of the Lima-Cincinnati Block company.

He was a Knights Templar Mason and a member of the Knights of Pythias, the Shriners, the B. P. O. Elks, the Lima club, the Board of Commerce, and the Shawnee Country club. He was also a member of the Allen-co, Ohio State and American Bar associations.

He was a member of the Lima bar for 25 years and for 30 years was local attorney for the Erie Railroad. He served five years as a member of the State Board of Law Examiners.

During the war he took part in civilian activities.

PROMINENT IN POLITICS

In 1890 Halfhill ran on the Republican ticket for city solicitor and was the first Republican to hold that office in many years. He was re-elected in 1892.

When his partner, Ridenour, was elected prosecuting attorney, Halfhill retired from politics until 1911, when he was chosen a member of the Ohio Constitutional convention. It was said that Halfhill did not attend a single session of the main or any committee of which he was a member during the entire period of the convention.

In 1920 Halfhill was a delegate

LIMA MAN TAKEN IN DEATH, SUNDAY

from the fourth district to the Republican national convention at Chicago, and was one of the men instrumental in bringing about the nomination of Warren G. Harding, his personal and political friend for many years.

Halfhill was married September 22, 1886, to Cora Miller, daughter of Rev. F. J. and Louise Spait Miller. ELEGANT FUNERAL PROGRAM

Many telegrams of condolence, among them one from President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding, were received at the Halfhill home Monday.

Private funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Arrangements will be made later for the body to be in state.

5 RESCUED FROM ALGER FIRE

Taken From Upper Windows on Ladders—$20,000 Blaze

Five persons trapped on the second floor of a frame building at Alger were rescued by volunteer firemen early Monday during the height of a fire which totally destroyed three business buildings and damaged several others. The total loss will approximate $20,000.

Origin of the fire was traced to the explosion of a kerosene lamp in Buck Newland's pool hall. The lamp was left lighted in the pool hall. Newland and his family reside upstairs.

Newland was roused about 2 a. m. by the heat and crackling flames. He awakened his wife and three small children. The five made a rush for the only stairway, but found it a roaring mass of flames. Escape was cut off. The building, an old frame, was soon afire in all parts.

Firemen and volunteers were forced to rescue the family from upstairs windows on ladders. They were able to save only a few articles of clothing.

A high wind carried sparks to roofs of other buildings. W. S. Snyder's garage, the Alger News, Marton's hall and W. S. Shadley's oilen warehouse were soon ablaze. The garage and warehouse were burned to the ground. Volunteers saved the township house after the roof had burned. The News office was afire several times, but the blaze was extinguished.

No insurance is carried on the oilen warehouse, it is stated. The loss on the building and contents, including several thousand bushels of onions, will total $10,000.

5 MAN KILLERS STOLEN

THIEVES broke into a Lima store Sunday night and walked away with five man killers in their possession. Lack of regulation on the display of one hand guns made it easy for these weapons to fall into the possession of outlaws.

Police investigation showed that five guns were taken from the second hand store of Frank H. Russell, 117 E. Wayne-st., when the place was robbed. Five watches also were taken. Entrance was gained by smashing the glass in a side window.

Police are seeking three men who were seen loitering about the place Sunday. They are described as ranging in age from 23 to 28 years. Aside from a meagre description of these suspects police have no clue.

10 DANCE OUT OF LAW'S REACH

Five Couples Fox Trot from New York to New Jersey

100 HOURS SET AS GOAL

New World's Records Established at Houston, Tex.

NEW YORK — (Associated Press) — Ten Marathon dancers stepped out of the reach of the law last night when they literally fox-trotted their way from New York to New Jersey to escape a police ruling that might have prohibited any further attempts on their part to set a new record for non-stop dancing.

The five youths and five girls along with extra girls who were filling in as partners for the tireless young men, who thus prevented their ambitions from being thwarted, danced their way out of an upper Broadway ball room, into waiting motor busses where they kept on fox trotting while the vehicles trundled to the Fort Lee ferry across the Hudson river.

They danced onto the ferryboat, danced while it chugged its way to Fort Lee, N. J., then they danced back into a bus and danced all the way to a Fort Lee dance hall.

In comparative comfort, the fox trotters settled down to their grind on the floor of the Jersey hall and at the end of 30 hours continuous stepping said they would keep it up for seventy more, enough to make it 100 hours.

NEW RECORDS SET

HOUSTON, Texas — (Associated Press) — Houston dancers claim all Tergichorean endurance records. When she abandoned the floor last night it was announced Miss Magdalen Williams had established a world's record for men or women with a continuous effort of 65 hours 53 minutes elapsed time.

Louis Kessler was proclaimed men's long distance champion with 65 hours 38 minutes elapsed time. Seventeen-year-old Goldie Hughes, who had to be carried off the floor by main force after her parents objected after she had danced 53 straight hours, claimed a new world's record for couple dancing along with V. V. Vestal, her partner for the last 40 hours 45 minutes of her marathon.

All four dancers were said to be in good condition today.

DANCE CONTESTS BARRED

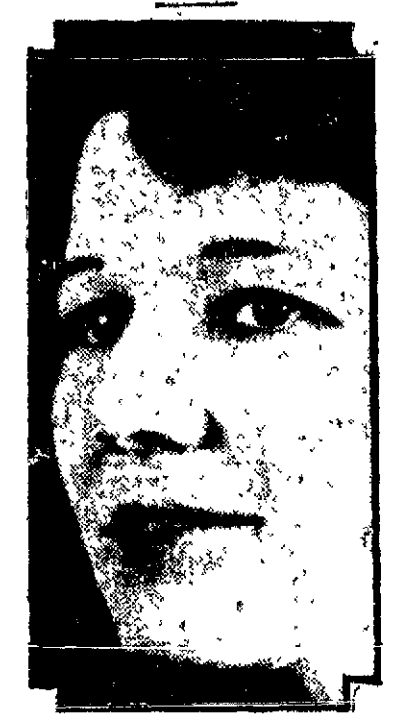

BOSTON — (Associated Press) — No long distance contests will be permitted in Boston, Mayor Curley announced last night. Two endurance dancing contests were scheduled to be held here this week.

"It is all foolishness to try to establish long distance Tergichorean records," declared the mayor.

MURDERESS FOUND

MRS. PHILLIPS IN SAN SALVADOR

Arrest of Hammer Murderess Momentarily Expected

LOS ANGELES — (Associated Press) — Mrs. Clara Phillips, who escaped from the Los Angeles county jail December 5, last, after she had been sentenced to ten years in prison for beating to death with a hammer Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows, has been traced to San Salvador, according to a copyrighted news story in the Los Angeles Examiner today. Her apprehension is expected momentarily, said the newspaper.

Mrs. Phillips escaped by sawing the bars to the window of her cell. No definite clue to her whereabouts ever has been reported. Her husband and several other persons were questioned after Mrs. Phillips broke jail but their examinations developed nothing to add to the police theory that her break for liberty was a task too great for an unaided woman.

She has been reported several times to be in Mexico.

Mrs. Phillips was said to have killed Mrs. Meadows because she believed the young woman had been associating with Phillips.

After Mrs. Phillips fled from Los Angeles, Phillips reported the killing to the police. Mrs. Phillips was caught in Arizona and returned to Los Angeles for trial.

Police here early today said they knew nothing of the finding of Mrs. Phillips.

AUTO CRASH RESULTS

IN MURDER CHARGE

PITTSFIELD, Mass. — Fred Miller, 40, was arrested at his home in this city today, charged with murder as the result of two persons being killed and three injured when his automobile crashed into a crowd of people last last night.

Display and sale of guns in any shop without regulation or record is arousing sentiment the country over and stringent laws are sought in many states which would make it more difficult for yeggs to obtain weapons.

The theft at the Russell store means that five more man killers have found their way into the hands of persons who may turn them against society for robbery and even murder.

As long as weapons, the principal tools of yeggs and murderers, are easy of access, they will be used for intimidating and killing victims.

MAN IS FATALLY HURT IN WRECK

J. M. Cripe Unconscious In Hospital After Street Car Hits Automobile—Wife Also Injured—Frank Mitchell Auto Ditched, Three Unhurt

Two persons were injured, one probably fatally, when an automobile collided with a one-man street car on S. Main-st., Sunday.

J. M. Cripe, 122 Haller-st., was still unconscious Monday and in a very serious condition, according to reports from City hospital, where he and his wife were taken following the accident.

Cripe is cut and bruised about the head, arm and body, and it is feared he is suffering from internal injuries. Mrs. Cripe suffered a cut in the forehead just over the right eye. Her condition is greatly improved.

Cripe was driving south on Main-st. when he attempted to make a turn into the Market House grounds. According to witnesses, his car was turned directly in front of a city street car north bound in charge of Motorman H. Fisher.

The automobile was somewhat damaged by the crash. Cripe and his wife were taken to the City hospital.

THREE ESCAPE

Three men were uninjured when a car driven by Frank R. Mitchell, 230 S. Collett-st., and occupied also by J. D. Bailey and F. Hawkins of the Lima club, swerved from the Wapakoneta-rd Sunday afternoon and turned turtle into a ditch.

The accident occurred about three miles south of Chiderville, Hawkins said Monday he believed the car hit a rut, which threw it off the road before it could be gotten under control.

The men were brought into Lima by a passing motorist. The top of the car was crushed.

G. B. Libby, 206 E. Elm-st., reported to police that an automobile bearing license tag 118-561, ran into his car at the corner of Fifth and Kibby-sts., smashing the left rear wheel, running board and bending the fender. This license, according to police records, was issued to Frank Yakusky, 1515 S. Main-st.

FAMOUS ACTOR DIES IN HOSPITAL AT BOSTON

BOSTON. — Jess Dandy, the actor who made the line "Vos You Eter in Cin-cl-nell!" from the Prince of Plessen famous all over the United States, died in a hospital here last night. He had been operated on a week ago.

Dandy, whose real name was Jesse Danzig, had played prominent parts in Broadway theatres.

24 CHILDREN ARE TRAPPED BY FLAMES

15 Rescued When Building in California is Destroyed

BODIES ARE FOUND IN RUINS

Boarding Institution is Quickly Enveloped by Blaze

SACRAMENTO, Calif., (Associated Press) — Nine Japanese children perished in a fire that swept a Japanese mission school here early today. Twenty-four children were trapped in the building but fifteen of them escaped or were rescued.

The bodies of the nine victims were found in charred rooms in the upper floors of the structure, AROUSED BY SMOKE

The institution was a boarding school and the students and teachers were aroused from their beds by smoke and flames. The fire, of undetermined origin, had enveloped the building before firemen arrived. A three story frame house, quickly became a torch.

When the fire was at its height, T. Kanda, an inspector of the school, made his way upstairs and carried out eight children before he collapsed from heat and smoke.

The intense heat held back the firemen in their futile effort to control the flames.

The building was destroyed.

BANKER DIES AT WAPAKONETA

S. W. McFarland, 76, in Summited Sunday Afternoon

Samuel Walker McFarland, 76, president of the Peoples' National Bank, at Wapakoneta and treasurer of the City Savings and Loan association of that city, died Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the McFarland residence, 206 S. Blackhoof-st., in Wapakoneta.

Death was the culmination of a general breaking down. He had been in failing health for several years, but continued active until shortly before his death. McFarland was the last of the paternal family of James M. McFarland, early resident of Auglaize-co, now one half sister, Mrs. Alice Sexton, of Willard.

Surviving the well known Wapakoneta are his widow and two daughters, Mrs. William Fisher of Lancaster and Miss Caroline McFarland, at home; also the half sister.

McFarland was a member of the Elks lodge, the Order of Eagles and other fraternal societies. He was born in the county west of Wapakoneta and spent his entire life in Auglaize-co. He was interested in numerous business enterprises.

He was postmaster at Wapakoneta during the administration of Grover Cleveland as president and was treasurer of Auglaize-co from 1889 to 1892. McFarland was chairman of Group 2 of the Ohio Bankers' association and a member of the executive committee of the organization.

Funeral services Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Wapakoneta. Solemn requiem mass will be intoned by the pastor, Rev. Father Mayer, assisted by Rev. Euse and other priests. It is expected that Rev. John Cogan of Fiqua will deliver the sermon. It is announced.

The body will be interred in St. Joseph's cemetery, near Wapakoneta.

REMOVAL OF JACKSON MONUMENT OPPOSED

WASHINGTON — Suggestions from unofficial sources that the statue of Andrew Jackson, opposite the White House in Lafayette Square, should be removed on the ground that it is not artistic have been taken up by Senator McKellar of Tennessee, in a letter to President Harding, urging that the executive not give his approval to such a proposal.

The sentiment of the American people is overwhelmingly against the desecration of any of its monuments to any of its heroes, Senator McKellar said in his letter.

The fine arts commission, the controlling body in matters affecting the landscape beauty of the capital, viewed the Jackson statue as faulty in artistic conception.

GOVERNMENT COSTS EACH PERSON $100

NEW YORK — (United Press) — "The annual cost of government to each man, woman, and child who lives in a city of 30,000 or more inhabitants is nearly $100, divided as follows: Federal Government, $35.47; state government $9.46; county government, $6.91; city government, $44.32; a total of $96.16. If these costs of government were averaged among the workers, instead of being computed on a per capita basis, the result would be an annual levy of $240 on every worker, from bootblack to banker."

This statement is contained in the current edition of The Budget, the monthly publication of the National Budget Committee.

"On the basis of average earnings of $1,500 annually" the articles continues, "the tax-collectors—Federal, state, county and city—exact about 16 per cent of all the city worker earns, as compared with about 14 per cent for the entire county, including both city and rural workers."

"Measured in terms of labor, the city-dweller contributes 58 days each year to government, as compared with about 50 days for the average worker, including rural dwellers. The toll of the man who lives in the country is about 45 days."

Maintenance of public schools is the largest item of expenditure in city governments. Averaging this cost in all cities, the per capita levy upon city dwellers, according to this computation is $10.25 annually. This figure applies, of course, not only to adults, but to children, whether they are in school or not.

Paradise, California, topped the list with a per capita cost of $19.29. The figures for some of the leading cities as given are: New York $12.22; Chicago, $8.88; Philadelphia, $7.73; St. Louis, $9.40; Los Angeles, $14.82; Pittsburgh, $11.82; San Francisco, $8.20; Buffalo, $13.03; Washington, $11.87; Cincinnati, $11.01; New Orleans, $4.72; Minneapolis, $11.58; Seattle, $12.40; Indianapolis, $8.43; Rochester, $11.16; Birmingham, Ala., $4.98; Bridgeport, Conn., $10.29; Salt Lake City, $12.45; Cambridge, Mass., $10.99; Yonkers, N. Y., $15.23.

Police protection in American cities cost the residents an average of $2.15 apiece. The cost was greatest in Jersey City, where it was $5.69 for each inhabitant and next in Boston, with $4.77. It was lowest in Portsmouth, O., where it was but 50 cents. In some of the other large cities, the per capita cost was as follows: New York, $4.14; Chicago, $4.01; Philadelphia, $4.05; St. Louis, $3.92; Los Angeles, $3.46; Pittsburgh, $3.11; San Francisco, $3.66;

Buffalo, $4.05; Washington, $3.89; Cincinnati, $3.76; New Orleans, $1.51; Minneapolis, $1.82; Seattle, $3.24; and Indianapolis, $2.27.

The fire department cost the average city dweller, $2.57. The per capita cost was highest in Hoboken, N. J., where it reached $4.79. In Holyoke, Mass., it reached $4.70. Some other per capita cost of maintaining the fire department were: New York, $2.57; Chicago, $1.99; Philadelphia, $1.69; St. Louis, $2.17; Boston, $2.66; Los Angeles, $2.45; Pittsburgh, $3.14; San Francisco, $2.95; Buffalo, $3.92; Washington, $2.32; Cincinnati, $2.42; New Orleans, $1.78; Minneapolis, $2.56; Seattle, $4.26; Indianapolis, $2.67; Denver, $3.02; Omaha, $3.81; Grand Rapids, $3.65; Trenton, $2.33. The lowest per capita cost was recorded in Chester, Pa., where it was 57 cents.

Conservation of health reached its highest cost in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where it amounted to $2.51 for each inhabitant. Lancaster, Pa., and Waterloo, Ia., were tied for low cost, with nine cents per capita. In New York, the per capita cost was 85 cents; Chicago, 86; Philadelphia, 49; St. Louis, 47; Boston, $1.07; Pittsburgh, $1.14; Buffalo, $1.26; Los Angeles, 56 cents and San Francisco, 42 cents. The average per capita cost for all cities was 71 cents.

GRAIN ACT IS DECLARED CONSTITUTIONAL

PUTS PITS UNDER U. S. CONTROL

High Court Passes on Exchange Regulatory Law

FARMER PROTECTION AIMED

Attacked by Board of Trade of Chicago

WASHINGTON—(United Press.)—Supreme court of the United States today placed its stamp of approval on the second attempt of congress to regulate the grain exchanges of the country.

It declares constitutional the "grain futures act" passed by congress last fall which brings the principal grain exchanges of the country under government control and provides that farmers' cooperative associations shall be admitted to membership in the exchanges.

About a year ago the court declared unconstitutional the first grain futures act passed by congress. PURPOSE OF LAW

The primary purpose of the two laws was to protect the farmers and producers of the country against alleged losses due to the manipulation of grain market speculators. The new law was attacked by the board of trade of Chicago, which asserted it was a taxing statute and therefore should be declared unconstitutional in the same manner that the first law was nullified. The first law, was knocked out mainly on the basis of a previous decision of the court, holding the tax on child labor products unconstitutional.

Chief Justice Taft, delivering the court's decision, said the grain futures act differs from the first law which was invalidated in that it would attempt only to regulate commodities in interstate commerce.

The wheat pit, he declared, is not a final destination of grain, but only a temporary resting place, like the stockyards in relation to cattle. The grain futures act, Taft said, regulates the grain exchanges in the same manner as the stockyards act, recently upheld, regulates the stockyards.

Such acts, Taft said, are legitimate exercise of the police power under the authority of congress.

PLAN VAULTS FOR COUNTY RECORDS

Fire Danger Impels Commissioners to Action

Part of the space soon to be available in the basement of the courthouse by the opening of the new comfort station may be converted into fire proof vaults for storing records, county commissioners declared Monday.

Attention of the commissioners was focused on the lack of protection by a survey of methods of storing books and records in various offices in the courthouse.

Numerous officials expressed the opinion that a fire of disastrous character, such as might reduce to ashes all or part of the building, would cause a fireproof vault.

Records and dockets which could not be replaced would be destroyed by the flames, they declare.

Most of the records are now kept in metal filing cases. In case of a hot fire, the metal would not burn, but officials point out that the papers and books within would ignite.

The comfort station will throw open three additional rooms in the courthouse basement. It is planned to use at least one for storage purposes.

As a safe storage place for old books, some of which date back almost a century, commissioners may have a sub-cellar excavated.

At present there are several tons of old books, records and legal documents stored loose in the attic of the building.

DEBRIS IS DUMPED ALONG ROADS, HEALTHIER IS TOLD

Dr. J. J. Sutter, county health commissioner, has received complaints along county roads to the effect that trash collected in anticipation of clean-up week, has been dumped along the highways. The complaint has been referred to the county commissioners.

Township trustees and city officials will direct the work of cleaning up the county this week, Dr. Sutter states. The first three days of the week will be devoted to collection of trash and the latter three to disposition, he said.

COVER PLANTS: FROST TONIGHT

Talking it over with the early bird, Ted is convinced that the weather is decidedly "off color" and that a change must come soon if this latitude is to have anything like summer conditions in the proper manner at the right time.

Fair tonight and Tuesday. Frost tonight, warmer Tuesday.

The forecast indicates clearing conditions, but the frost prediction is not calculated to cause a jubilee among owners of fruit trees, bulb plants, or early gardens.

The "deadly accuracy" of the long range predictions is the occasion of no small amount of comment among citizens generally.

It might be observed too that the accurate manner generally in which the "spot" weather forecaster has been hitting the nail on the head is worthy of comment. One never gets a great deal of credit for the things he does accurately, but when he is in error, that's when criticism is leveled. The weatherman is in the same class with everyone in that respect.

There is no longer a tendency to snuff and sneer at predictions made months in advance by the scientific folks.

Save from $52 to $78 a year

You will be amazed to see how the use of "Bull" Durham will cut down the cost of your smoking.

How is it possible to give you quality at the low cost of 10 cents for 50 cigarettes?

ANSWER: The government tax alone on 50 machine-made cigarettes is 15 cents—5 CENTS MORE THAN THE COST OF 50 "BULL" DURHAM CIGARETTES TO YOU!

The average smoker saves $1 to $1.50 a week by "rolling his own" from "Bull"—or from $52 to $78 a year. This makes quite a Christmas fund—or pays for a fine trip.

GIRL IS GLAD OF KILLING MAN

Chicago Resident Waited 3 Years for Betrayer's Return

CHICAGO — (United Press) — Anna Doadone, 15, who waited three years to slay Frank Taranto, 40, the man she says betrayed her, declared today that she was so glad she killed him that if "I was out of jail, I would go to a show."

Taranto was shot to death yesterday by the girl, police said she admitted, when he visited the Diadone home.

Anna told police she had kept a revolver hidden in her room waiting for return of Taranto, a former roomer, with the Diadone family, since he assaulted her three years ago.

As the man started to enter the house, she started shooting and shouting: "You ruined me!"

She fired six shots, all that were in the gun.

She said she determined upon her revenge after hearing her mother say that a girl so attacked had "lost her honor and was no good any more."

"Because of this man, I was dishonored. I could never marry," Anna told detectives at the juvenile detention home. "I believe the priest will forgive me."

After Taranto fell dead, Miss Diadone walked over to the body and kicked it. She then leaned on a fence that surrounded the Diadone home, and waited for police to arrest her.

COUNTY RECORDS IN DANGER

OFFICIALS of Allen-co are confronted by a condition that probably exists in many places, where valuable records are required to be kept intact, reflective of the business of the county. Altho the most important of the county records are placed in steel filing cabinets, expected to be fireproof under ordinary circumstances, there is no assurance that they would resist a general conflagration within the walls of the courthouse.

Old records and unimportant papers and books, as well as supplies, are kept in wooden cases, vulnerable in case of attack by fire. While the court house is built for the most part of masonry, concrete and tile, there is more wood in its construction than is used in structures of a similar character in these days. The Allen-co court house was the last word in architecture and fire-proofing in its day, but great advances have been made in past years and it is no longer considered safe.

It is recalled that the courthouse in Clark-co, at Springfield, considered even more fireproof than the Allen-co structure, was completely destroyed by fire, with at least part of the most valuable of the records of the county.

Installation of fireproof vaults in the courthouse here would doubtless be expensive, but compared with the loss that would be sustained in the destruction of records, the improvement would be cheap. Particularly is this true of records of court cases and property transfers, as well as mortgages and leases.

It is not likely that a campaign for a new courthouse, really fireproof and assuring absolute safety of valuable papers and books would meet with favor, but there is little question that the installation of fireproof vaults would be approved by a majority of the people of the county.

If conditions exist at the courthouse such as have been pointed out by officials, it is high time proper precautions against loss by fire are being adopted. Waiting until a fire occurs before acting, is like locking the garage after the auto is stolen.

DANCING CHAMPS

WHAT is your private opinion of these girls who wear out several orchestras and a half dozen male partners apiece to get the title, "endurance dancing championship of the world"? It's an interesting but futile pursuit that will take its health toll later in the young dancers' lives. Over-exertion always presents its bill. And it always collects—in full.

Men run marathons, collapse at the end. The crowd cheers. No one thinks the runners are "cuckoo" for over-exerting. Other men over-exert, contesting to see which can lift the heaviest weights or bend the thickest iron bar over the chest. Crazy? It's never suggested.

But when the girls come forth to demonstrate endurance, you hear people on all sides grunting and sniffling. Envious, perhaps. But more striking is the demonstrations that what's sauce for the goose is not sauce for the gander.

THERE'S just as much sense in endurance dancing as there is in long-distance running, weight lifting, auto racing—or even baseball for that matter.

Doctors, interested about the women dancers, "wearing out" partner after partner, disagree as to whether it indicates that woman has more endurance than man. However, she has. When a man and his wife get into a run of bad luck, the wife nearly always is last to "throw the sponge." Often, of course, this is because she doesn't realize as thoroughly as her mate, the extent of the trouble they're facing.

Not one man in 10 could endure the anguish of childbirth without "giving up"—killing himself or getting drunk.

THE endurance dancing craze started in England several months ago. First only a few dancers took it up. Then whole crowds caught the spirit. We'll probably have a repetition—people going in a mob to a continuous dance, trying to trip the light fantastic all night or longer.

Freak dancing waves come periodically. Epidemic insanity—social hysteria, as the psychologists call it. Europe in 1874 had a dancing craze that wound up with people dancing in the streets until they fell screaming and foaming at the mouth.

An Italian doctor decided that the dancing disease was due to the bite of the tarantula, large spider. On the theory of setting a fire to stop an advancing forest fire, he invented a dance which he prescribed to his patients—the tarantella dance. Confidentially, we believe that 24 hours of endurance-dancing would cure us of dancing for all time.

LIMA NEWS HEALTH SERVICE

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Address letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The News.

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY WITHIN THE BARRAGE

She had acute coryza, but called it "just a bad cold." She sprayed her friends and neighbors, who have the grip, I'm told. But she's the neighbors took to bed they spread the wicked flu. Now she can't get this thru her head, yet the neighbors can and do.

There is a noticeable difference in the behavior of people in different communities in this matter of spraying one another with sputum. It seems to me, altho I am perhaps biased, that the more the health authorities of the community waver and wobble on the question of the causations of alleged "colds" the more generous are the unenlightened people of the community in spraying their friends and neighbors.

Unfortunately the health officers of some municipalities still teach that at least some so called "colds" may not be infectious or communicable, but merely effects of exposure to bad weather, drafts or something of the kind. It is human nature to seize on this suggestion or admission and use it as one's warrant or excuse for going about with an alleged "cold" infecting one's friends and associates with nobody can tell what disease.

A child attending school develops an alleged "cold." The child suffers some discomfort, but does not seem sick enough to go to bed. Is the parent justified in sending the child to school? Is the teacher justified in admitting the child to school? No. That would be disregard of the rights of other children in the schoolroom, for neither parent nor teacher nor even a doctor can tell what the illness is to be, and there is always a chance that the child may spread some serious disease among others in the room. Even tho the illness proves to be a mild coryza, it is still unjustifiable to spread the disease among others, for the complications or sequelae of simple coryza are often of a serious nature, demanding operations, costing heavily in anguish and unhappiness and time and money.

There is such a thing as the golden rule in personal hygiene. After all, if we are to make any progress in the prevention of the most prevalent and costly of all communicable diseases it will have to be thru individual conscientious care. Public health regulations can be of little avail and public officers can do little else than educate the public.

It is up to you and me and the fellow next door. It has to be unanimous, too, for if you and I voluntarily isolate ourselves when we have what you but not I might be tempted to dub a "slight cold" while the fellow next door keeps mum about his and goes right along to work, exposing every one who happens to get within five feet of him in the next day or two—what would be the use? That fellow, with his "slight cold" might be the death of your little boy who buys candy from the man or of my mother in law who consults him about the fuel situation, just as tho he distributed bombs instead of microbes. For remember, nearly all of the respiratory infections masquerade as "slight colds" at the beginning; they cause also tenths of all our illness and more fatalities than any other kind of disease.

JUST FOLKS

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

THE CLASSICAL METHOD

In the good old days, in the good old days, when the classical writers wrote, When they penned the stuff with their squeaky quills which the orators love to quote, They gathered their thoughts as they went along, as all who will read may learn, And they labeled their gems with a line like this: "After viewing a Grecian urn."

"Lines after seeing my lady's shoe peep out from her satin dress," That told what the poem was all about and you never were left to guess.

"Lines to a cat that howled at night."

"Lines to a full-blown rose."

"Lines after dining on shrimps and cheese"—and wonderful lines were those.

Nothing was left, in those days of old, to hazard or chance or doubt, Just what the poet had seen or heard he told when he started out.

"Lines after hearing a lady sneeze," "Lines to an empty purse."

For those classic fellows always gave their reasons for writing verse.

They were wise old bards in those good old days who looked at the Grecian urn

And were thrilled to song by my lady's shoe, as all who read will learn;

And all who soar to the heights sublime should leave, when they're starting out, A line to tell the folks on earth just what it is all about.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Indigestion, Grippe and Flu usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning signs, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes. Better than a mustard plaster.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 35c and 60c.

Do Your Children Grow Fast Enough?

Are They Sturdy, Healthy, and Strong, or Pale, Weak and Run Down?

Growing children need a great deal of food, and sometimes they will not eat the kind of food that they need for strength—then they become thin, pale, and run down.

This condition of undernourishment can be corrected by taking Father John's Medicine, which does contain just the food elements such children need, and that is why so many children gain weight regularly while they are taking this old-fashioned family medicine.

Father John's Medicine is an expertly blended preparation of an excellent oil with other ingredients in such a way that its food elements can be easily taken up by those who are weakened and run down. Your friends and neighbors know its value. Thousands of mothers depend upon it to keep their children well and strong.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wemmer and daughter, Miss Pauline, W. Market-st., left Saturday for Los Angeles, California. They expect to be gone about six weeks, returning for the commencement exercises at Culver Military Institute, Culver, Indiana.

YOUR ICE CREAM FREE FOR A YEAR

To Introduce Our New Heathized Ice Cream

We are making a wonderful new and super-pure Ice Cream. It is HEATHIZED, a big forward step in ice cream sanitation, admitted by scientists to be a notable advance in pasteurization. It is ice cream made without air.

In making ice cream at home you know how you have to turn the paddles constantly while freezing. This stirring mixes the air with the cream while it is freezing.

PEERLESS HEATHIZED ICE CREAM is frozen in a sterile atmosphere. It is the purest ice cream that scientific methods can produce.

To introduce this super-pure ice cream we offer FREE a brick of PEERLESS ICE CREAM every Sunday for a year to those who will name the THREE FLAVORS in our wonderful new

MYSTERY ICE CREAM BRICK

This brick is the triumph of our many years of ice cream making. Three delicious flavors will be used in the three layers of this supreme brick, which we will offer to the public for the first time on Saturday, April 21st. If you can select from the list below which three of the 26 flavors will be used in making this brick, we will give you FREE a book of 52 coupons, each good for one brick of our best ice cream—a brick for every Sunday for a year.

Anyone can vote. You don't even have to be a user of our ice cream. Nothing to buy. Just pick out the THREE FLAVORS from the list of 26 printed here. Vote as often as you wish. SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: I'll, you please publish my letter?

To Mr. B: My, but you have lots of faith in yourself. You're the one that always gives a fair deal, but never one that is that is. Are you telling me not to trust "him" very far? Well, I don't agree. So you think a girl never gives a fellow a square deal? Is it wrong?

Remember, Mr. B, you cannot judge all girls by just a few. In fact, chances out of ten a girl always gives a fellow a square deal if he treats her with respect and like a lady. (I'm not slandering). You say "if you don't do it, serve any for you are too low-minded. You misjudge Mavis. You don't have to sit calmly and wait for a fellow to come up to the door and ask for you. If you would get out and run around more with girls instead of waiting for them for a year or two, you would see that most girls give fellows a square deal. Have you always given a girl cause to like and trust? If you have, a girl certainly wouldn't give you a so-called rotten deal. Your kind certainly disgust me. If you had a little more faith in a girl, perhaps she would treat you better. Such silly questions you ask! "Are there any girls in the world who would not give a fellow a rotten deal?" I clearly give you to understand, Mr. E, that there are plenty of girls who will give a fellow a square deal.

QUESTION: BLOW is another letter. I have received concerning "E." I want to thank the readers of the column for their interest in helping me try to convince "E" of his mistaken ideas. I feel that your letters have had more weight, as far as arguments are concerned, than mine.

Dear Miss Smart: This is what I think of "E". He must be a bachelor or an old widower who wants a girl and can't get one. For such a selfish question would never come from a young man. Perhaps he is a fellow who is too narrow-minded and selfish to show a girl a good time, for fear he will not get his money back. "A sport who wants the winning ticket and won't buy." He is evidently a rich bachelor or widower who fears a girl would expect him to spend some of his money and then turn him down. But, more than likely someone who thinks every girl is stuck on him and because they don't fall for him, he calls it a rotten deal. Any one of such a nature surely deserves a rotten deal. If he would go with the right kind of girls he would be served as he serves them. I think "E" is too sick for a girl that he will surely die if he does not get a girl who will love him out, girls, or his blood will be on your hands. I am sure if "E" will give his name and address that will be lots of girls who will show him he is mistaken about their sex."

Dear Miss Smart: I saw in The Lima News that Barney wanted to meet X. Y. Z. I would like to meet Barney.

Please send her my name and address providing she sends me her name. I will go to see her or call her up if she will favor me with her name.

X. Y. Z. I have "X. Y. Z." name and address and I will be glad to forward "Barney's" name to him, providing she wishes me to do so.

Dear Miss Smart: Will you please answer these questions for me? In accepting an invitation to a party where two people are entertaining, is it proper to send your acceptance to both hostesses and how would you reply?

Is it necessary when serving salad with the dinner to have salad forks at the right of the hostess?

It is not necessary to address your acceptance to both hostesses. It makes little difference which hostess; perhaps the one you are more intimately acquainted with. Your acceptance should be rather formal, reading something like this: "Mrs. Jones accepts with pleasure the kind invitation of Mrs. Bell for Friday, April the twentieth, at the Women's club."

Yes, salad forks should be used. The honor guest should sit at the right of the hostess.

Is a Bad Back Crippling You?

"Every Father Tells a Story"

It's hard to do one's work when every day brings morning lameness, throbbing backache, and a dull, tired feeling. If you suffer thus, why not find out the cause? Likely it's your kidneys. Headaches, dizziness, and bladder irregularities may give further proof that your kidneys need help. Don't risk neglect. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands have been helped by Doan's. They should help you. Ask your neighbor.

A Case in Lima:
L. E. Kopner, 212 W. Kibbey-st., says: "I caught cold which settled in my back. A sharp pain caught me like a knight thrust and I felt as though my back were broken. I was advised by a friend to use Doan's Kidney Pills, and got a box at Butler's Drug Store. After taking three boxes I was relieved."

Big Year in Prospect For Baseball

(By HENRY L. FARRILL)
NEW YORK — With all the circus prospects of getting bigger and better than ever, baseball gets under way tomorrow for another stretch down to the series in October.

All of the club-owners and the league officials expect a big season, and probably they will not be disappointed. Improvements have been made in many of the parks, and the new Yankee stadium here will make it possible to accommodate more fans than have attended games in the past.

"BATTLE ROYAL"
Prospects for a battle royal in both leagues will stimulate interest also. John A. Heydler, president of the National League, picks the Giants, Reds and Pirates for the big fight in his league, with the Cards and Cubs as dark horses.

The Yanks, the Tigers, the White Sox and the Browns will fight it out for the flag in the American League, in the opinion of Ben Johnson, head of the league.

Three new managers will appear at the head of the club. "Fuzzy" Chance, former P. J. of the old Cubs, has the Boston Red Sox wished on him, and he exercised his characteristic frankness recently.

JAKE GROSS SIGNS TO BOX PEPPERS

To Mix On April 25 Here

Lari Smith, manager of Jake Gross, local fistic artist, signed articles Monday morning for a fight with Joe Peppers of Bucyrus for 10 rounds here on April 25.

There are two or three good prospects for the semi-final wudup, according to Charles Maxwell, who is promoting the show to be staged at the Memorial Hall.

Tommy Warren will be one of the semi-finalists and a fighter from McGinley's stable in Cleveland or from Akron will probably furnish the opposition.

The show is expected to pack the house as Gross is a popular favorite with the local fans and Peppers is almost his equal in the ring, having received one decision in Bucyrus and a draw decision here.

Gross has been keeping in condition all the time and it will not take much preparation to put him into excellent shape for the first going.

Peppers is well battered following his fight here last week with Gross, but reports from his camp say he will be ok for the coming battle.

JOE WOOD YALE BALL COACH

Joe Wood, famous American League pitcher, who will coach Yale's baseball candidates, feels certain that he will develop a winner in his first year in charge.

For several years Yale has been slipping in an athletic way, particularly with reference to its showing against Princeton and Harvard.

Wood hopes to win back some of the lost baseball prestige. He has a great opportunity and fairly good material to work with.

"I understand," said Wood, "in discussing Yale's chances, that pitching plays the big part in college baseball, that hitting on the whole is rather weak."

"What is true of college ball is equally true of the major leagues, hitting is most essential. A big league club that is weak in the bats, little chance of winning a pennant, regardless of how strong it may be in other departments of the game."

I feel that the fact that I spent the year as a pitcher will be of much value to me as a college coach. Naturally I will be in a position, because of my pitching experience, to get the best possible out of my pitching candidates.

"If I am able to develop a few good pitchers, I will have no fear as to the outcome of the college season, it will be successful."

"In addition to my pitching experience I have played the outfield, and been a regular in the lineup, which has enabled me to grasp the possibilities of the other end of the bat."

"The fact that I have played under two such great managers as Bill Carrigan and Tris Speaker will also work to my advantage, since I have had the benefit of their instruction and advice."

'Dixie Demon' Meets Jamaica Kid

TOLEDO, O.—What is generally regarded here as the greatest fight of the present season is set for the Coliseum, April 20—next Friday night.

Jamaica Kid, the man whose willingness to mix was the greatest help in preparing Jack Dempsey for his fight with Jess Willard, meets Tiger Flowers, the "Dixie Demon," undefeated light-heavyweight champion of the south.

Jamaica Kid is a wonderful zine man, who has beaten most of the light-heavyweights and heavyweights, black and white, now before the very latest sensation of the ring. He comes from Atlanta with an impressive record, challenging any of the top-notchers, from Champion Gene Tunney down thru the lists.

He has never fought north of the Ohio river, and his record is of more than local interest. Flowers is the only negro left hander in the fighting game. Panama Joe Gans, who thinks nothing of spotting opponents 20 or 30 pounds, refused to meet Flowers at catchweights and demanded that he come down close to the middleweight limit. Flowers can not do it—and Gans knew it.

EASTERN STARS LEAD IN WOMEN'S BOWLING MEET

ST. LOUIS — The Order of Eastern Stars, represented by a five-women team, rolled into first place in the opening night of bowling in the National Women's pin tourney here.

The team scored a total of 1,561 pins. Mount Moriah was second with 1,482. Both were local teams.

NATIONAL LEAGUE CHIEFS SIZE UP THEIR TEAMS

By JOHN MCGRAW
(Manager New York Giants)

I will be greatly disappointed if my club fails to win the National League pennant. With the best infield in either league, an outfield that will be strengthened by the addition of O'Connell, good catching, and pitching that will measure up to the standard, I see no reason why my club should not repeat. The one thing that must be guarded against is over-confidence, as a result of previous successes. Holding the opposition too weakly is a grave fault that often proves costly to pennant hopes.

By PAT MORAN
(Manager Cincinnati Reds)

My club finished second last year after one of the poorest starts ever made by a major league team. I hope to do as well this year, possibly better, which means I think we have more chance to win the National League pennant. My pitching is my only worry, despite the fact that I rate my staff higher than most of the other National League clubs. In Donahue I have a second Mathewson, one of the outstanding stars of the league. A great pitcher like him means much to a club.

By BRANCH RUCKY
(Manager St. Louis Cardinals)

While I am always the optimist, I cannot enthuse as much over my chances for 1923 as I did the possibilities of last year. I was confident my club would win in 1922. The loss of my star outfielder, McGraw, and the failure of Peck to win up set our chances. I feel that Pitcher Toney and Outfielder Bill Myers will help the Cardinals. I am hopeful they will supply the pennant punch. We will be a strong contender all the way.

By BILL MCKECHNIE
(Manager Pittsburgh Pirates)

While most of the experts feel that the New York Giants will show the way in the National League, I beg to differ with them. I am positive the Pirates will make things interesting for McGraw's club. My team is at least 20 per cent stronger than last year. "Red" Russell has added a batting punch. Traynor at third has arrived, a real star, rounding out my infield. You can't overlook the Pirates in doping out the finish.

By BILL KILLEFER
(Manager Chicago Cubs)

Nothing short of the first division will satisfy me for the coming season. In finishing fifth last year with an average better than .500, we surprised the baseball world. I am sure we will do even better this year. I am basing my hopes on improved pitching. Some of my young pitchers will have greatly benefited by last year's experience, while Osborne should be one of the best pitchers in the league. The Cubs will be dangerous.

By WILBERT ROBINSON
(Manager Brooklyn Dodgers)

It is customary for some managers to win pennants before the opening of the season. I don't cherish any pennant hopes this year. A first division berth will be entirely satisfactory. In rebuilding my team I will have to use a number of untried recruits as regulars. They are certain to make many costly mistakes. Only experience will give them a big league polish. My pitching is my one big hope.

There is no better staff in the National League. My club will get good pitching, but pitching alone will not win ball games.

By FRED MITCHELL
(Manager Boston Braves)

Take it from me the Boston Braves will not finish last in 1923. No club in the history of baseball had tougher breaks than we did last year. At one time we had only 14 men in the squad in addition to 14. Fifty minor and major injuries handicapped us throughout the year. The Braves have picked up some very promising material which will strengthen some of the weak spots of last year. The Braves will not finish last.

By ART FLETCHER
(Manager Philadelphia Nationals)

In my first year as manager my big ambition is to finish one notch higher than last year. In 1922 the Phillies moved out of last place. While most of the experts are picking my team to finish last this year, I am shooting at sixth place. Sands at short should help my club. He is a fine fielder and I am hoping that he will hit big league pitching. I am figuring on Meadows and Weener showing a much improved grade of twirling.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Fate plays many queer pranks. Even is this in the realm of sport as is amply illustrated in the case of Charles Reinke, sensational University of Michigan athlete.

Reinke, who broke the half-mile run, and who has smashed the existing "880" mark in every meet he participated in during the winter, might never have turned out to be a star runner had it not been for a "dare" and an acceptance.

In his high school days in Milwaukee Reinke went out for the track team, and his coach, desiring to capitalize his tallness and ranginess, proceeded to develop him into a high jumper. For three years Reinke worked to perfect himself in that event. One day, in his senior year, however, he was "dared" by one of his teammates to race against the varsity half-miles.

The result was that he left the rest of the field so far in the rear that the coach decided he had sadly misdirected Reinke's talent. Thereafter, Reinke continued to run in the half-mile. Not long after he entered the interscholastics at Lake Forest and came in second to Hattendorf, who is now also a member of the Michigan team. Reinke subsequently won the city championship of Milwaukee in the "880" event.

Today, Charles Reinke is being picked by many experts as a likely successor to Ted Meredith, former University of Pennsylvania star.

GREAT OUTFIELD COMBINATIONS HAVE BEEN NUMEROUS

There have been many great outfield combinations in baseball history. Some have earned their fame through fielding ability some from a purely batting standpoint, while others have been loudly acclaimed because of their all-around value to a team.

Not so long ago the Boston Red Sox in Hooper, Speaker and Lewis had what was generally conceded as one of the best outfield trios in the game. These pasture men could perhaps cover more ground than any other outpost defense got together. All possessed rifle-like arms, and were he unto ambitious baserunners who endeavored to take undue liberties with whips of this type. And each was a good hitter.

Then there was the Crawford-Cobb-Jones troupe which performed for the Detroit Tigers in the long pennant-winning days.

CINCINNATI—Michigan university baseball players in Cincinnati Monday.

GRADES CUT HOPES OF ALBION BASEBALL TEAM

ALBION, Mich.—Hopes of a winning baseball team at Albion college received somewhat of a jolt when the monthly grades were announced.

YESTERYEARS IN SPORT

TEN YEARS AGO, on April 16, 1912, the Spokane baseball team made a triple steal in a game with Portland, in Northwestern league.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO, on April 16, 1898, Wallace, pitching for the Naps, beat the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1, at Cincinnati.

A small size riot broke out at New York during the New York-Boston game at the Polo Grounds when spectators disputed an umpire's decision.

Joe Gans never argued weight

One of the greatest lightweights who ever pulled on a glove was Joe Gans, the "Old Master." The colored boy could hold his own with any of them. A remarkably clever boxer—one of the best the game has produced—he also packed a real wallop. Time and again Gans went out of his class to meet opponents. Size or weight made no difference to him.

But Gans was in the line in the days when big purses were not known, and when "marathon" bouts were in order. Gans' greatest battle no doubt was that 42-round affair with Battling Nelson at Goldfield, Nev., in 1906. It was scheduled, as was "dared" by one of his sudden and when before George Siler gave the fight to Gans on a foul. But for that there is no telling how long the two would have battled.

In that bout the Baltimore boy fought for the largest purse ever put up in a fight in which he was one of the participants. The stakes were good for $34,000. A good sum for those days.

But all Gans, the winner, got out of the "kitty" was a meagre $11,000—and the lightweight title. Nelson the loser, conceded the rest. And all because Billy Nolan, Nelson's shrewd manager, refused to sign articles unless this prize was to get some two-thirds of the purse for his share, win, lose or draw.

It is one of the rare instances in the game wherein the loser got the bigger end of the stakes.

That with them a tournament is just a game of golf. Never do they seek to learn of the progress of any rival while they are playing, although possibly that is the first question they will ask when they reach the clubhouse.

"Shadows play havoc with your game," remarked Hutchison. "Often someone in the gallery will move just as you have started your shot. The very movement often upsets you. Even more fatal is the casting of a shadow over the ball, due to some spectator suddenly changing his position."

"Concentration is more necessary in golf than any other game," explained Jack. "You can't concentrate if you are being disturbed. Very often some little thing that wouldn't be observed by the gallery proves most annoying to the player."

I put the question to Hutchison as he was preparing to tee off on the third hole. Jack hadn't gotten warmed up and had taken a six on the first two holes.

Bad luck had persistently followed him on the first two holes. After a beautiful drive, he found that the ball had selected a hole in the turf as a stopping place, which almost obscured the ball from view. That cost a stroke. A couple of other similar blunders proved equally costly.

"You must get a good start to have a chance in a big tournament," Hutchison replied. "Two such holes as I have just played would about put me out of the running. Pitted against star players of about equal ability, it would be almost impossible for me to recover the ground already lost."

"Confidence in your ability to do things means everything in golf. Your confidence is either strengthened or shattered by a poor start. A good first ball off the tee means a lot. I got away well and am going fine. It wouldn't surprise me if I equaled the course record."

A good start is what every expert golfer hopes for in a big tournament. All the professional experts tell me,

AKRON HORSE RACES OPEN APRIL 18

AKRON, O.—Some of the best half mile horses in the country, are stabled at the local race track waiting the start of Akron's sixteen-day running race meeting which opens April 18.

Star performers from Havana, Tanjuma, Mobile, Bowie, and New Orleans tracks will feature the daily entries in the Akron meeting, over 300 horses were accounted for at the local track Saturday and track was immediately situated on additional barns to accommodate the late arrivals.

Such well-known horses as My Gracie, Panaman, Advance, Assume, Pirecracker, San Marquis and North Wales will appear in the Akron races.

Peter E. Callen returns to Akron as Joe Gans, the "Old Master." The colored boy could hold his own with any of them. A remarkably clever boxer—one of the best the game has produced—he also packed a real wallop. Time and again Gans went out of his class to meet opponents. Size or weight made no difference to him.

Watching a big golf tournament, most of the spectators wonder as to the chances of the star players who are performing.

What are the feelings of the players? Do they give any thought as to the score of their most dangerous rivals? Is it possible for some little thing to affect their game?

What is the biggest asset in making a good showing in a big golf tournament?

Recently, while making the rounds of the course with Jack Hutchison and Mike Brady, as they played 18 holes of practice golf, I put that question to those two star players. Neither player had any idea that I had asked the same question of the other.

I put the question to Hutchison as he was preparing to tee off on the third hole. Jack hadn't gotten warmed up and had taken a six on the first two holes.

PRESSING FOR DISTANCE FAULT OF GOLFERS

(By MIKE BRADY)
GOLF is a jealous mistress and one of her strongest lures to lead players into disastrous temptation is to induce them to knock the cover off the ball.

If there is any department in which most golfers, new or old, like to excel, it is that of long hitting.

The beginner who attempts to hit with all his power practically forfeits his chances of becoming a good golfer. It is the rhythm of the stroke, the perfect timing, that sends the ball a long way.

You will see powerfully built men, with blacksmith arms and powerful shoulders, unable to hit within yards of diminutive chaps of frail physique.

Why? Because ten to one the big man's power is three-quarters wasted. The force of the stroke may be wasted on the back swing, or on the first part of the downward stroke.

The frail chap, thru proper pivoting, supple wrists and smoothness of the swing has his club head traveling at maximum velocity when it comes in contact with the ball.

With a smooth, rhythmic swing, you will be surprised how far the ball will go without the expenditure of every ounce of strength.

Even Abe Mitchell, tremendous hitter that he is, usually has something "up his sleeve" for use when occasion calls for extra distance. But when he "processes" it is for a purpose, and he knows that he will be sure to hit the ball where and as he intends.

ABILITY BROUGHT OUT BY TAKING OF DARE

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Fate plays many queer pranks. Even is this in the realm of sport as is amply illustrated in the case of Charles Reinke, sensational University of Michigan athlete.

Reinke, who broke the half-mile run, and who has smashed the existing "880" mark in every meet he participated in during the winter, might never have turned out to be a star runner had it not been for a "dare" and an acceptance.

In his high school days in Milwaukee Reinke went out for the track team, and his coach, desiring to capitalize his tallness and ranginess, proceeded to develop him into a high jumper. For three years Reinke worked to perfect himself in that event. One day, in his senior year, however, he was "dared" by one of his teammates to race against the varsity half-miles.

The result was that he left the rest of the field so far in the rear that the coach decided he had sadly misdirected Reinke's talent. Thereafter, Reinke continued to run in the half-mile. Not long after he entered the interscholastics at Lake Forest and came in second to Hattendorf, who is now also a member of the Michigan team. Reinke subsequently won the city championship of Milwaukee in the "880" event.

Today, Charles Reinke is being picked by many experts as a likely successor to Ted Meredith, former University of Pennsylvania star.

GREAT OUTFIELD COMBINATIONS HAVE BEEN NUMEROUS

There have been many great outfield combinations in baseball history. Some have earned their fame through fielding ability some from a purely batting standpoint, while others have been loudly acclaimed because of their all-around value to a team.

Not so long ago the Boston Red Sox in Hooper, Speaker and Lewis had what was generally conceded as one of the best outfield trios in the game. These pasture men could perhaps cover more ground than any other outpost defense got together. All possessed rifle-like arms, and were he unto ambitious baserunners who endeavored to take undue liberties with whips of this type. And each was a good hitter.

Then there was the Crawford-Cobb-Jones troupe which performed for the Detroit Tigers in the long pennant-winning days.

SEEDS COME FROM ANCIENT TOMBS

Secured by American Visiting Tut's Burial Place

BACK FROM TRIP TO EGYPT

Noted Horticulturist's Plans Commented on by Forbes

(By E. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) — Col. William Boyce Thompson, the first American visitor conducted to the tomb of Tutankhamen by the Earl of Carnarvon, and who announced on his return to America this week that he is to receive seeds from ancient Egyptian tombs, is noted authority on horticulture. Here is an extract from a character sketch of this picturesque, dynamic American mining and business giant I wrote some little time ago.

"So keen is Col. Thompson upon exhaustive research, experimentation, and analysis that he is contemplating the establishment of his place at Yonkers-on-the-Hudson as a laboratory for horticultural research. He is hopeful that new knowledge of why things grow may be evolved and prove of incalculable value to mankind. He and his scientific associates may, thru experimentation, achieve results in the plant world similar to what the Rockefeller Institute is doing in the medical world. Col. Thompson is a noted horticulturist. He usually carries off the highest prize at flower shows. He knows flowers as thoroughly as he knows copper ore.

"His collection of quartz, precious stones, semi-precious stones and other products of the interior of the earth, which he began collecting when he was a boy, is the finest in the world gathered together by any private citizen. He thinks nothing of journeying thousands of miles to hunt up some variety of stone or metal for his priceless collection, which needless to say, is guarded night and day. All these activities are inspired, not by vanity or mere pride of possession, but by a deep rooted urge to contribute something of value to his fellowmen.

"How many rich, I wonder, are motivated by the rule Col. Thompson long ago laid down for his own guidance, namely, that for every dollar spent on himself and his family, not less than $3 must be used for philanthropic, scientific or public purposes."

Don't let the Germans fool you by their flimflaming of quotations for the mark. It's a little dodge that won't work very long.

Stuyvesant Fish, who met his Waterloo when he battled with Harman for domination of the Illinois Central Railroad and who died last week, was in many respects like the late J. P. Morgan. Mr. Fish had a wonderful grasp of banking and finance, both domestic and foreign. He was as physically as Morgan, and he could be just as brusque. Also, like Morgan, he was very warmly liked by his intimates. Altho his wife for years was the recognized leader of New York's 400, Mr. Fish preferred reading and studying to society activities. He was extremely well read. He was, too, systematic, and knew where to lay his hands on all kinds of information. The bitterness between him and Harman, Wall Street always understood, had its inception, not in any business dealings, but in society jealousies. It was said that Mrs. Fish, a stickler for guarding the portals to the four hundred, refused to "take up" Mrs. Harman when she begged to make a sensational roadway in the railway and financial world. Mrs. Harman did not succeed in overthrowing Mrs. Fish, but Harman did succeed in ousting Fish from his place in the railway and financial world. "Stuy" Fish was much less superficial than many of our present day financial notables.

Evidently the presidency of a large business enterprise does not make for happiness. Last year's suicides included 100 presidents or heads of large business enterprises as contrasted with only 50 college professors and school teachers and 19 preachers, 52 judges and lawyers. Truth is that men who shoulder the responsibility of managing a concern usually have more to worry about than most people. "Success" too often is won at the cost of nerves and health.

BRITISH CABINET MAY RESIGN

Threatened as Result of Strong Opposition

CRISIS IS AT HAND TODAY

Government's Life Hinges on Budget Before Parliament

LONDON. — (United Press.) — The Bonar Law ministry presented its budget which may make or break the government to parliament, today.

As the momentous monetary problem was placed before the legislators, rumors persisted that the resignation of the Bonar Law cabinet was at hand. This was officially denied at 10 Downing-st.

The fate of the English pocket-book lies in the budget. It has been announced that tax reductions will be submitted and the nation is awaiting the scheme with breathless expectancy.

During the forenoon in parliament, the usual list of treasury figures regarding the financial standing of the nation was issued to members who were jammed into the crowded chamber.

There was little attention paid to these, however, and most waited impatiently for the chancellor's explanation.

Unrest among the workers in England was manifest in increasing proportions today as the all-important budget was placed before parliament.

Conferences between employers and employees were scheduled for this week in the builders, railway shop men, pottery workers, cotton millers, chemical workers, shipyard and coal trimmers trades. There has been a strike or lockout threatened in each of these industries and hundreds of thousands of men are involved.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

LONDON. (Associated Press.) — The staunch supporters of Prime Minister Bonar Law among the morning papers are indignant at what they call the "conspiracy to weaken the ministry," launched in the Sunday press, which reported that he was about to resign because of ill health.

The Morning Post, the leading Conservative paper, declares there is nothing in the condition of Bonar Law's health to compel his retirement.

The Post and the other papers which share its views attribute the "conspiracy" to Lord Birkenhead and other Conservatives who refused to participate in the government. They also implicate David Lloyd George and his supporters whom they say, desire the restoration of the coalition.

Elsewhere there is equally firm support for Sunday's rumors. One writer, referring to last evening's official denial of the reports, says "It may be true that Mr. Bonar Law has no intention of resigning, but it must be equally true that he has no intention of not resigning."

REPORTS CONFIRMED

Most noteworthy among the newspapers confirming Sunday's reports, is the Daily Telegraph which usually expresses moderate conservative views, although it was a strong supporter of Lloyd George. This newspaper's parliamentary expert says there are solid grounds for the rumor and asserts that if Bonar Law had thought free to do so he would have retired before now. The premier, the writer adds, has now come to the conclusion with profound regret, that he cannot hope to prolong indefinitely his incumbency in his present post.

The Telegraph, however, in company with some other newspapers, says that the prime minister's sense of duty will induce him to continue in office until plans for the future can be made.

Herbert Nussbaum, Van Wert, writes: "One day recently I was walking downtown when I heard a noise, a combination of a siren and a klaxon. A streak of green flashed by and I managed to see on the side of the car, 'Don't Swear, Call No—!' It was a garage trouble car."

Miss Hazel Wheeler, 903 Fairview-ay, tells that a young man was in a hurry rushed to his auto. He worked for about 15 minutes, pushing and pulling on levers and other devices, in a vain effort to start the machine. Finally he realized that he had failed to crank the motor."

Harley East came out of a drug store and found a crowd collected about an automobile in the middle of the street. He was severe in his criticism of drivers who park their cars without setting the brakes until he found it was his own car which he had left standing on an incline at the curb.

E. J. Emrick started to take a truck load of fine fat pigs to town. His truck stuck in the mud near Wapakoneta.

The mud was pretty bad, he says. "When we lifted the pigs out of the truck to drive them the rest of the way, even the pigs stuck in the mud and had to be pried out."

Bob Shaw tells about a friend who moved from the place where he roomed because a young man there practiced so persistently on a saxophone. When he engaged a room at a new place he was told, "You will be interested to know that another young man from the place you have been living is moving here. He plays the saxophone."

Don John moved by the spirit of spring, took a camera and an afternoon off to photograph some choice scenes around. He thinks now there was something wrong with the camera or with his method of operating it. "When I got home," he says, "I found all six views on one plate."

Cloyd Brotherton, attorney, Metropolitan-bldg., vouches for the following incident which occurred in an era when typewriters were a rarity.

"A railroad man came to my office back in '95 to obtain legal advice," Brotherton declared. "During the conversation he kept looking at a new typewriter I had purchased. It was the first of its kind in Lima."

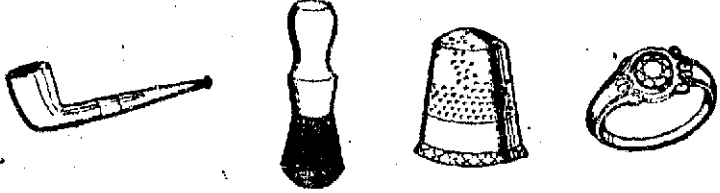

"Finally he pointed to it and said, 'Young fellow I do not want to display my ignorance, but what kind of a musical instrument is that?'"
